B29s Give 1st Okinawa Help

By the Associated Press

Okinawa today was a shambles—reminiscent of its recent battle-ravaged litter—reduced by a 132-mile typhoon that killed three American Navy personnel, left 10 sailors missing and more than 100 Yank soldiers injured, and sank, damaged or beached 127 naval vessels.

The typhoon, which struck Okinawa Tuesday, had swept northward to kill at least 69 Japanese, flood 8000 houses, wash away 81 bridges and leave many thousands homeless in central and southern Honshu.

Fifty Superfortresses from the Marianas delivered 284 tons of food to the 150,000 troops on Okinawa today. Approximately twice that amount will be transported to them during the next three days by bombers from Guam. Next week deliveries will be made from Saipan.

In addition to food, the troops need shelter facilities to replace tents, Quonset huts and other installations demolished or heavily damaged.

Parked airplanes were rolled about by the typhoon, the island's food stocks were nearly all destroyed, and hospital patients had a nightmarish time throughout the hours of darkness.

Hospital ships in the area were called to remove 1250 hospital patients and those wounded by the storm.

The Okinawa base commander, Brig. Gen. Lawrence Lawson, said removal of all personnel not needed for a "permanent garrison" there was imperative because of lack of food and shelter.

In Washington yesterday, the Navy reported that a far less severe typhoon on Sept. 16-18 sank four motor minesweepers with casualties of 89 officers and men dead or missing. A submarine chaser also was sunk then, but no one aboard was killed.

Navy craft sunk by this week's storm were two tugs, a patrol yacht, a gasoline barge and a minesweeper, all caught in Buckner bay.

Union Compromise May Halt Eastern Mass. Strike

An indication by union officials that they were willing to compromise their wage boost demands today brightened prospects for averting the threatened strike of Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway employes, scheduled for 4 a. m. tomorrow.

The willingness to give ground was expressed by Russell Withrow, chairman of the union conference committee, as he entered a meeting of company and union officials in the office of Gen. Cole, chairman of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

"Naturally, there will have to be a compromise somewhere to settle this matter," he said. "If you are willing to accept $200 for an automobile you want to sell, you usually ask $300 and stand prepared to drop down to the $200 figure.

Withrow's statement was taken to mean that the union's demands had been scaled higher than they expected to receive with the intention of accepting some lower amount.

Start of the meeting called to settle the dispute between the union and company was delayed more than an hour by the late arrival of several labor representatives.

Withrow said his group would leave the conference at 6 p. m. even if no settlement has been reached.

"We are sick and tired of conferring until midnight and into early morning hours," he declared. "We will leave the meeting at six o'clock tonight no matter how things are going."

The labor delegation, in addition to Withrow, included Joseph Shea of Lowell, John Costello of Brockton, Ollis Rogers of Haverhill, and Bernard Gilmetti of Brockton.

Representing the company were Arthur G. Wadleigh, chairman of the board of trustees, William E. Crowther and John I. Donovan, trustees; Vice-Presidents Fred A. Cummings, A. J. Boardman and Andrew Biggio.

Wadleigh said the company was "willing to abide by the company-union agreement and arbitrate with the men as provided in that agreement."

As the conference got under way, Gov. Tobin said he was willing to step into the situation if he was asked by both sides.

The strike was voted to enforce demands for a boost from 97 cents to $1.35 an hour for operators, a 40-hour week and a 40 per cent pay increase for mechanical employes.

Withrow said the workers wanted the increase to bring their salaries into line with rates paid in other cities. He said Springfield and Pittsburgh operators received $1.10, Detroit, $1.12.

He said he had not received a telegram from A. L. Spradling, international president of the Amalgamated Ass'n of Street Car, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators, AFL, threatening suspension of local charters if the strike is called.

More than 600,000 persons in 20 cities and 51 towns from New Hampshire to Rhode Island would be left without public transportation by the walkout.

$4,000,000 Dutch Flower Bulbs Periled by Strike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (INS)—Rep. Bloom (D.) of New York appealed today to striking longshoremen in New York city to permit the unloading of 35,000 cases of flower bulbs sent from Holland to be sold to purchase food for the starving Dutch.

Bloom made his appeal after receiving a telephone call from the Netherlands ambassador urging some action be taken to prevent their spoilage.

Bloom declared the bulbs were valued at three and a half to four million dollars and represent "the only thing the Dutch have to sell to purchase food."

Eyewitness Story Of Havoc at Okinawa

By JULIAN HARTT

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (INS)—I arrived in Tokyo this afternoon aboard one of the first planes to leave typhoon-flattened Okiwana in nearly a week, leaving behind virtually complete destruction of one of America's greatest warborn bases.

During Tuesday night and Wednesday winds of recorded velocity of 143 miles an hour swept away tents like tissue paper and crushed Quonset huts like berry boxes.

Argentine Cabinet Resigns

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 12 (AP)—The cabinet of Argentine President Gen. Farrell resigned today, under pressure of both military and civilian groups. Official announcement of the mass resignation came as some 120 army and navy officers met in the officers club, and a growing crowd gathered in the streets outside.

Fernengo Lima announced former War Minister Juan Peron had been arrested. A few minutes earlier, Peron's successor, Gen. Eduardo Avalos, had introduced Lima to newsmen as "the new navy minister."

A member of his household earlier reported the former strong man of the government had gone to the countryside "for a rest," but there was a steady stream of official visitors at his residence during the morning. Plainclothes men guarded the home.

Argentina's tumultuous political events started rising to a climax late yesterday, when Farrell announced presidential elections would be held April 7.

Leaders of various democratic organizations harangued the growing throng in the streets, repeating their three-point demand that the government be turned over to the supreme court, that elections be held without political party activity, and that a state of siege reimposed a month ago by Farrell be lifted.

Farrell remains in office as president, at least temporarily.

Shortly after the resignations were announced by the war ministry, an Army officer reappeared on the officers' club balcony and told the crowd:

"The Campo de Mayo garrison does not want the government delivered to the supreme court. The Navy wants it so delivered and the people want it so deliered. In the face of this situation, it was proposed to appoint a cabinet of civilians.

"But none of them want to serve under Farrell. That is all for the moment. We will have a further announcement later."

Stowaway Bride Joyous In Hub Reunion With GI

BRITISH GI BRIDES CALL AT U. S. EMBASSY
Seek Passage to Join Soldier Husbands Here

Red-headed Doneses Nancy Heath Kuhn, the British stowaway bride, flew into the arms of her GI husband, Robert, here today and begged immigration officials to let her go home with him to the little bungalow home that is waiting in Rochester, N. Y.

The couple parted with the docking of the SS Irvin MacDowell, met once more in the immigration service offices in Tremont st., after young Kuhn, who served both in the Army and the Merchant Marine, had driven here from Rochester.

Robert was dressed in a natty uniform of the Merchant Marine and had pinned on his breast the Combat Infantryman's Badge and the campaign ribbons he won overseas.

He brought along a new outfit of outer clothing and some flimsy undergarments, chosen for the bride by Robert's aunt, Mrs. Isabelle Bills of Rochester.

Officials said her status in this country still must be decided in Washington, but agreed to allow her freedom to be with her husband here over the week-end.

What Donesse wants most of all is to go on to Rochester and fix up a nursery for the youngster they expect next spring. She said she took "the hard way" to get here so her baby could be born on U. S. soil and she seems certain that dream is to come true.

Asked by reporters if she cared what American girls thought about her, she said, very seriously: "I know what you mean; all that stuff about them being resentful because GI's married English girls.

"I don't believe they really are as jealous as the papers seem to make them."

She said she was only a fair cook and admitted she couldn't make New England style apple pie.

"But I'll learn," she declared confidently. "I know I'll get to be a good Yankee."

She also did not have any preference over whether her child is a girl or a boy, but Robert had very definite hopes.

"I want a red-headed boy," he said.

Troops Unload Freighters at Liverpool Docks

By ALEX SINGLETON

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Troops were ordered into the seven-mile long Liverpool docks today and began unloading 12,000 tons of urgently required foodstuffs from five freighters and nine coasters as the paralyzing dock strike raised a mounting menace to delivery of the nation's meager rations.

The strike spread through Edinburgh, where 100 Scottish dockers quit.

If the strike should spread to Southampton there appeared little likelihood it would affect the homeward movement of Americans unless it continued more than a week.

Troop Shipments From Paris Slowed

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP)—During the past two weeks the homeward travel of 65,000 American soldiers from the European theater has been postponed, partly because of a slowup of shipping from east coast United States ports over which the War Department has no control, the Oise section Army Headquarters said today.

British GI Wives Ship Plea Up to Parliament

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The problem of British brides who want to join their GI husbands in America will go before Parliament Monday. Following a demonstration by the women demanding transport to the United States, A. H. E. Molson, Conservative, told Commons today he would ask War Transport Minister Alfred Barnes for an estimate of how soon war brides would be able to join their husbands.

Error, Lack of Tanks Ruin Luzon Defense

By GEN. JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

(Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

That was the day the Japs truly hit us. They struck the beaches at Vigan, up from Lingayen Gulf, with a task force of warships and then unloaded 84 jammed transports. That was the day I realized, for all time, the futility of trying to fight a war without an air force. What targets those 84 transports would have made! But the only plane over them during the landing was a P-40 reconnaisance ship. The Navy's handful of motor torpedo boats were far south.

My orders from MacArthur were simple and to the point: "In the event of a landing, attack and destroy the landing force."

But it was not possible to attack, even if trained troops had been available. There was no room to deploy any considerable force between the mountains and the beaches in the landing area. I intensified the patrol activities around the landings, to delay their advance as much as possible, while I maneuvered my divisions into positions from which a counter-attack could be launched.

The shooting war opened on Dec. 16, and looking back on it makes me think that it was touchingly symbolic of all other combats in the futile fight for the Philippines. Two busloads of Jap troops moving south from Vigan were ambushed by a platoon of Filipino infantrymen commanded by a Lt. Williams. The ambush took place at a little point named Tagudin—the beginning, tiny as it was, of a land war that was to make the whole Pacific shake.

The Jap busses were blocked by Williams' men. Shots rang out from the hidden positions at the side of the road, and when the Japs piled out of their vehicles Lt. Williams waded into them with his pistol and killed four of them single-handedly at close quarters.

Then our men withdrew. It was the beginning of endless days and nights of killing Japs, getting killed, and withdrawing. Not that we did not try, with everything we had, to hold whatever we had.

The Jap had showed his hand by now. He would not strike near the Zambales coast. So I asked MacArthur to release the Thirty-first Division from my command and to give me the Ninety-first, lock, stock and barrel. It had only been attached to me; not mine. Word came back to me from Manila that MacArthur approved, and at the same time came a MacArthur order for my North Luzon force to hold the enemy north of an east-to-west line running across the narrow coastal plain 50 miles below Vigan at San Fernando la Union. There was only one way south for the Vigan landing forces, and that was straight south down the coastal plain. The mountains on their left and the China Sea on their right blocked any other route.

GEN. WAINWRIGHT RELAXES AT WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, VA.
"A Soldier's World Is Where He Is Fighting. Mine Was Falling to Pieces"

THIS IS MY STORY

(This is the sixth article in the series by Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright. In it the gaunt Hero of Bataan and Corregidor tells of the setbacks which prompted Gen. Douglas MacArthur to order him and his men to begin the trek of terror to Bataan—and worse.)

The Japs came down the coastal plain on Dec. 21 and collided with one battalion of the Thirteenth Infantry Regiment and one battalion of the Twelfth near San Juan, five miles north of San Fernando. Outflanked by the power of the enemy, and because of inexperience, my men dispersed and were cut off from the main body. Scattered remnants of the ruptured units fled into the mountains to the east, and filtered back to us in small groups for the next two weeks.

The senior American officers with the 13th and the 12th Infantry Regiments, Lt. Cols. Moses and Noble, and Maj. Joe Ganahl, were three of the finest combat officers in my command. Ganahl, a spirited Texan, fought as few men have ever fought until the fall of Bataan. And then, when he must have seen with haggard eyes the faint ray of liberation, he met his death near the end of the war when a Navy submarine torpedoed a Jap prison ship filled with our men.

Only God knows what happened to Noble and Moses . . . brave men.

They took to the mountains after the fall of Bataan and succeeded in organizing a fair-sized guerrilla force with which they proceeded to harass the Japs for many months, ambushing, raiding and living the rugged life of the hunted.

Stories of their indomitable spirit reached us in whispered reports from men who had seen them or had first-hand information of what they accomplished.

But at last Noble and Moses decided to surrender. Their provisions and arms had been reduced to nothingness. They listened, at long last, to the constant appeals to them by the Japs to surrender. They would be treated as honorable prisoners of war, the Japs told them, if they would only come out of their hiding places and surrender.

Noble and Moses gave up. They were immediately slapped into a dungeon in the old walled city at Ft. Santiago and, from all reports, were beaten and tortured over a shocking period of time. They were later seen at Bilibid Prison by several of our men. They had been starved until they were little more than skeletons. One of them appeared to have been blinded. They were last seen with their hands wired behind their backs, being taken out of the prison.

Our setback at San Juan was discouraging. But we were not backing up—yet. I pushed the 71st Infantry and a battalion of field artillery northward, under Col. Donald Bonnett, to hit the head of the Jap column and attempt to delay its sweep southward from the Vigan area. Bonnett took off up the coastal road with what buses I was able to give him.

But that night of Dec. 21-22 the Japs landed 16 more transports just south of Bauang and along the shores of Lingayen Gulf down as far as Agoo, which faced the 11th Division's right flank. One Jap landing force moved inland behind the more northerly section of Bonnett's north-going command.

The Japs hit Bonnett on the morning of Dec. 22 and simultaneously put heavy pressure on the right flank of the 11th, which was to the south of Bonnett at San Fabian.

Knowing that Bonnett's position was untenable, I ordered the lower portion of his force, which was going north, to turn and come back down the coastal plain, pass Rosario and regain the comparative safety of our right flank stretching along the base of Lingayan Gulf.

As for Bonnett himself and his more northerly force, I ordered that they continue north to Bauang, get on the Naguilian road which winds up the mountains to Baguio and then come back to us through a southern-bound mountain road known as the Kennon Road.

I made it plain that Bonnett must negotiate this circuitous route with as much speed as possible; that it was imperative (as I will explain a bit later) that he and his men be out of the Kennon Road by dark on the 22nd.

Something went wrong. Bonnett went up the snaking Naguilian Road to Baguio all right, successfully evading the enemy force then coming down from Vigan. But he halted his men at Baguio for food and rest. I had no way of knowing that he did this, for I was even then planning a maneuver which might

Truman, Wife Flay D.A.R. Racial Ban

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—President and Mrs. Truman joined today in decrying race discrimination in the artistic field after the D. A. R. refused use of its Constitution Hall h ere to a Negro pianist. The artist involved is Hazel Scott, wife of Rep. Adam C. Powell (D.) of New York, a Negro, who addressed protests to both the President and the First Lady. He asked that Mrs. Truman boycott a tea being given this afternoon by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The President wrote Powell in sympathetic vein, but said he was powerless to interfere w i t h D. A. R. policy.

Subsequently, Mrs. Truman telegraphed Powell that her acceptance of an invitation to the tea was without relation to the "merits" of the controversy surrounding uses of Constitution Hall.

She said the invitation was accepted "prior to the unfortunate controversy" and that she regretted the conflict "for which I am in no wise responsible."

Mrs. Truman wrote Powell: "I deplore any action which denies artistic talent an opportunity to express itself because of prejudice against race or origin."

The First Lady's telegram, signed Bess W. Truman, was in direct reply to one from Powell last night suggesting she not attend the D. A. R. tea, arranged for 4 to 6 o'clock at the Sulgrave Club.

"Artistic talent is not the exclusive property of any one race or group," the President wrote Powell. "One of the marks of a democracy is its willingness to respect and reward talent without regard to race or origin.

"We have just brought to a successful conclusion a war against totalitarian countries which made racial discrimination their state policy.

"One of the first steps taken by the Nazis when they came to power was to forbid the public appearance of artists and musicians whose religion or origin was unsatisfactory to 'the master race'."

Mr. Truman said, however, Powell would realize "the impossibility of any interference by me in the management or policy of a private enterprise such as the one in question."

A White House secretary had said earlier Mrs. Truman's would attend the function. She is an honorary member of the Independence, Mo., D A R chapter.

Powell, in his telegram to the First Lady, which also was addressed to Mr. Truman, said: "It is merely incidental that the individual involved now is my wife. When it was Marion Anderson, the wife of the President at that time, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, publicly withdrew from the D A R."

9-Man Atomic Law Plan O. K'd

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (INS)—The Senate interstate commerce committee today unanimously approved the McMahon proposal to create a nine-man committee to handle atomic energy legislation in the 79th Congress.

Creation of the special committee, with Administration backing, was expected to solve the Senate's squabble over jurisdiction on atomic control bills. The proposal limits the life of the committee to Jan. 3, 1947.

Majority Leader Barkley said the resolution would probably come up Monday.

JAIL JAP ARSONISTS

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Seven civilians convicted of burning down the residences of former Premier Suzuki and Privy Council President Hiranuma on Aug. 15 each were sentenced today to five years in prison.

Hub Hotels Set For 12,000 Navy Men Due on Fleet

Boston Hotels are going to take a double halfhitch on an already tight accommodation situation to provide as many rooms as possible for 12,000 bluejackets arriving next week on battleships, cruisers, an air aircraft carrier and a destroyer flotilla, it was disclosed today.

Charles A. Coyle, executive secretary of the Boston and Massachusetts Hotel Ass'n, said the association had voted unanimously to provide hotel space as far as possible for the sailors now en route from the Pacific to celebrate Navy Day here on Oct. 27.

Coyle said hotel managers were asking regular patrons to sacrifice rooms for the men who had destroyed the Jap fleets and had landed the Army on the shores of Japan. Businessmen who ordinarily make overnight stops at Boston hotels are urged to co-operate by cancelling their reservations as far as possible.

The hotels are in daily contact with Navy welfare officers who are trying to arrange accommodations for families of the sailormen who have been serving in the Pacific for one to three years.

The Navy information office explained that while most of the sailors will be required to bunk aboard ships, many will request and receive two and three-day leaves and will require quarters ashore.

In addition to the 12,000 men and officers comprising the crews of the ships coming to Boston there are several thousand high score Navy, Marine and Army men arriving. They, however, are expected to be sent to separation centers as soon as they arrive.

Missed the Boat

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12 (AP)—Six locomotives consigned for shipment to France missed the boat today because they were too big to negotiate a sharp curve of tracks that led to the loading dock at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Normally the 125-ton engines—part of a consignment of 700 for bombed-out French railroads—are shipped through New York. But the longshoremen's strike there changed the plan.

Parade Put Off Until Sunday by Early Rain

Heavy showers today caused Mayor Kerrigan to order postponement of the parade and Boston Common festival intended to highlight the city's observance of Columbus Day.

The mayor announced at noon the parade and exercises would be postponed until 1 p. m. Sunday, after he had conferred with weather bureau officials and learned that the rain probably would last until well after the 2 p. m. starting hour.

(Note: The sun began to shine brightly at 1 p. m.)

He pointed out that many children were to take part, and that their costumes would not afford sufficient protection.

The entire day's program, he said, would be carried out on Sunday, with the start of the parade scheduled for 1 p. m. at Hanover and Charter sts., North End, moving over a route through Scollay sq., Tremont, Stuart and Dartmouth sts., Copley sq. and Boylston st. to Boston Common.

The parade will disband at the Common parade ground and the Columbian festival, symbolic of Pan-American unity and friendship, will follow.

Indoor observances, however, went on as scheduled, including the dedication by Abp. Cushing of the Maryknoll Junior Seminary at Mt. Wally rd. and Newton st., Brookline.

The Columbian festival in New England Mutual Hall, scheduled for 8 p. m., offered a program of music and pageantry, a dramatized "Story of Columbus" and an action salute to the people of all the Americas.

Although the Boston parade was postponed, more than 200 veterans took part in an East Boston Columbus Day parade sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of World War II. The paraders marched from Central sq. to Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church.

After the parade a mass in memory of East Boston veterans who died in World War II was celebrated by the Rev. Leonard Bacigalupo, brother of Rev. Andrew Bacigalupo, East Boston chaplain who died overseas.

CPO VIRGIL EARLYWINE CPO ROBERT BURNETT
Principals in Marital Mixup

Suicide Fails Navy Wife of 2

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12 (AP)Discharged from a hospital as "out of danger," Mrs. Claire Earlwine-Burnett today was confronted again with a complex marital tangle which developed as her first Navy husband returned from a Jap prison camp. She had, meanwhile, married one of his shipmates.

The former Navy nurse, 32, received hospital treatment yesterday for an excessive dose of sedatives which police said was a suicide attempt. This followed a long conference with her two husbands, which apparently developed no solution to their problem.

For two weeks she has known that her first husband, CGM Virgil Elmo Earlywine, 32, was back from the "dead" after being reported lost aboard the submarine Perch in the Java sea in March, 1942.

She received a telegram a fortnight ago from Earlywine in Manila saying he had been rescued after more than three years of imprisonment by the Japs at Macassar, in the Celebes islands.

Tuesday he arrived here and was visited by his wife at the hospital where he was taken for routine examination She told him she had believed him dead and had remarried. A meeting of the three was arranged at her home for the following day.

There Earlywine, his twice-married wife and the second husband, Robert E. Burnett, 32, also a Navy chief petty officer, talked for hours "but didn't get anywhere."

The two men said the distracted wife excused herself and went to the kitchen, came back pale and faint, and moaned, "It's too late now."

Policeman Harold J. Bell said Mrs. Burnett told him she had taken an overdose of sedative because "as long as somebody has to be hurt, it might as well be me . . . I didn't want to give either one of them up."

The woman's marriage to Burnett was her second since Earlywine was reported missing and presumed dead. She married John Pershing Ryder, another Navy man, in Cleveland, O., in December, 1942, but had the marriage annulled in January, 1944, after radio listeners said Tokyo broadcasts named Earlywine as a survivor of the Perch.

But this renewed hope vanished when no official word came from the Navy or the Red Cross, so a few months ago she married Burnett.

PW, Wife Who Wed Uncle Plan Honeymoon

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Sgt. Gene Birdwell, 22, today awaited release from Letterman hospital so he can return to Kansas City, Mo., and spend a "second honeymoon" with his wife, Ann, 19, who married his uncle while he was a prisoner of the Japs. She had been led to believe he was dead.

Although he was "too mixed up to think straight" when he heard the news at Manila, Birdwell said in an interview here, "I'm not sore at anyone; it wasn't anyone's fault and I'm very anxious to get home."

Mrs. Birdwell's marriage to Jack Marshall of Wichita, Kan., the uncle, was annulled after Birdwell was discovered alive.

Birdwell said his visit home on furlough would in reality be "our first honeymoon."

"We were married two years ago while I was on furlough and didn't have much time together," he said.

He was shot down March 10, 1944, in a Liberator bomber on a raid over Balikpapan, Borneo.

Brandeis Widow Dies at 79

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Alice Goldmark Brandeis, 79, widow of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Louis D. Brandeis, died of a heart attack last night at her home here.

Justice Brandeis died in 1941, several years after his retirement from the Supreme Court.

Justice and Mrs. Brandeis were married in 1891. Two daughters who survive are Mrs. Elizabeth B. Rauchenbush of Madison, Wis., and Mrs. Susan B. Gilbert of New York City.

Two Girls Reveal Crime Wave Roles

As every available policeman was ordered into the Mattapan-Dorchester district today to help halt the alarming spread of assault cases there, Greater Boston's rampant crime wave continued unabated in the other sections, with an Everett safe robbery and kidnaping, and a Beacon Hill $6750 jewelry theft reported today.

The latest breaks came even as police were announcing the roundup of a gang, including two 22-year-old girls, who allegedly confessed Greater Boston robberies in which loot totaled between $30,000 and $40,000.

Mrs. Mildred T. Lee of Charles st., Waltham, and Mrs. Marion Bell of Water st., Quincy, wife of an overseas soldier, were arrested by Belmont police and will be arraigned in East Cambridge tomorrow.

Their alleged accomplice George Brown, alias George Baker of Burbank st., Back Bay, State Prison parolee, was held at Quincy headquarters for arraignment in Quincy tomorrow.

The girls said they took part in the burglaries "for a thrill," police said. In most cases they either spotted the places to be robbed or acted as lookouts during the breaks, according to police.

Police said loot valued at several thousand dollars was found in Bakers apartment. A fourth member of the gang was being questioned while detectives sought still another man.

Victim of the Everett kidnaping in which Charlie's Lunch in Beacham st., was ransacked and a safe carted off, was Anthony DiFilipilo, 32, of Bow st., Everett, the bartender.

He told police he had closed up and was walking home early today when four armed men forced him into their car, stole his keys, $15 and a $40 ring, and drove back to the lunch.

While two men broke in, the other two drove him around in the car for an hour, DiFilipilo reported. He notified police from an ice company office, Spring and Second sts., where he was dumped out of the kidnapers' car.

Miss Virginia P. Casey of Revere st., Beacon Hill, reported cash and jewelry with a total value of $6750 was stolen from her apartment while she was taking a shower.

Meanwhile, in Mattapan, extra police joined in patrol duty and in a search for the slayer of Miss Sarah Rodman, 43, of Fottler rd., who was clubbed to death near her home Monday night.

The attack on Miss Rodman, followed by similar assaults reported by other women in the area, aroused residents to action and 125 World War II veterans, all members of the Mattapan Post 302, Jewish War Veterans, voted to volunteer their services to police in a move to stamp out crime in the district.

Nurse's Slayer to Add Unwritten Law to Plea

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12 (AP)—The drama of jealousy, suspicion and violent death that has left Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt husbandless and facing a murder charge became more complicated today, as the case involving the 45-year-old San Francisco society matron moved toward superior court arraignment.

These were developments:

James M. MacInnis and Vincent Hallinan, attorneys for the socialite mother of three children, announced she would plead innocent and innocent by reason of insanity, with the "unwritten law" being invoked as a principal part of her defense on the charge of slaying Mrs. Vada Martin, a nurse with whom she suspected her husband of having an illicit romance.

Hallinan claimed evidence of insanity in Mrs. Mansfeldt's family had been discovered.

Navy Warrant Officer Wilbur L. Martin, husband of the slain woman, urged that Mrs. Mansfeldt be made to "pay the full price" as an example to prevent the killing of other wives on "mere suspicion."

Martin prepared to accompany the body of his wife to their former home in Baltimore, Md., for burial, but said he would return here for the trial.

Dist.-Atty. Edmund G. Brown announced he would not ask the death penalty at Mrs. Mansfeldt's trial.

Brown and the accused woman's attorneys continued investigations attempting to unearth evidence of "romantic" relations between Mrs. Martin and Dr. Mansfeldt, who took his own life within a few hours after his wife admittedly shot the pretty, brunette nurse on Oct. 4.

Cautious jailers kept an around-the-clock vigil to prevent any possible attempt by Mrs. Mansfeldt at suicide.

As authorities indicated her arraignment and plea are scheduled in superior court within two weeks, Hallinan said he would press for an early trial because "I feel these continued little shocks may precipitate Mrs. Mansfeldt over the abyss, and I can't take the responsibility."

He stated he would seek acquittal on the straight plea of innocent, stressing the "unwritten law," before resorting to the ultimate defense of insanity.

Hallinan revealed that records produced in Fresno, Cal., by County Clerk Ernest Dusenberry showed the defendant's paternal grandfather, A. C. McSwain, was committed to the Stockton State Hospital on Jan. 2, 1888, and that her maternal grandmother, Ann Connell, was committed to the same institution on Jan. 30, 1914. In both commitments W. S. McSwain, one-time sheriff of Fresno County and father of Mrs. Mansfeldt, appeared as a complaining witness. Both grandparents and Mrs. Mansfeldt's father have been dead for many years.

The grief-stricken husband of the slain nurse told a woman reporter who said that in similar circumstances she would demand the death penalty:

"Well, that goes for me, too."

Special cheers for returning veteran PFC Johnny Godinho, of Dorchester, were given by his wife, shown here holding his 3-month-old niece Diane Belmonte, when the soldier arrived today at Commonwealth Pier. Johnny is to be godfather to Diane who is all set for the christening rites. The ceremony will take place when he gets home

15 Relatives Greet Vet as Ship Docks

Johnny Godinho of Roseclair st., Dorchester, who roared along with the famed 2nd Armored, "Hell on Wheels" Division from North Africa to the heart of Berlin, was greeted at Commonwealth Pier today by a special cheering section all his own—a group of 15 relatives ranging down to his 3-months-old niece.

The latter, Diane Belmonte, cooed a greeting and a hint she was all set for christening rites at which Johnny will be godfather just as soon as he gets home from Myles Standish and Ft. Devens.

Diane was carried down to the pier by Johnny's wife, Ruth, whom he married a week before he left for overseas three years ago.

Johnny's sister, Mrs. Joseph F. Belmonte, also of Roseclair st., thought her brother had missed out on enough family celebrations, so she postponed the christening until his arrival.

He came home on the S. S. M. I. T. Victory, which headed a flotilla of five transports scheduled to debark more than 7000 soldiers at Commonwealth Pier and the Army Base before nightfall.

The M. I. T. had 146 New Englanders among her complement of 1935 returnees, mostly members of engineers and infantrymen attached to armored divisions.

Another "Hell on Wheels" man was Cpl. Ralph Caruso of Saratoga st., East Boston, who collected six battle stars along the route to Berlin. He served overseas 35 months and came home to find that his wife, Rose, holds the same rank as he does. She's a corporal in the WACs.

Others included Capt. Joseph F. Landers of Tappan st., Roslindale, who served 38 months with the First Armored Division and branded Anzio the "toughest of them all"; Sgt. John Cote of West Leominster, who wears a Purple Heart for a wound suffered in the Ruhr drive, and T-5 William Marshall of Alpha rd., Dorchester, who had to leave his British bride and their daughter, Bernice, 8 months, back in Southampton.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 12 (AP)—A raid on three opium dens in the Phoenix Chinatown area last night resulted in the seizure of money and narcotics valued "conservatively" at $65,000. The raid was conducted by federal customs and narcotics agents, joined by city detectives.

Japan Asks Aid in Food Crisis

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Japan today placed one of the leading authorities on her tyrannical constitution within the Emperor's circle of advisors as she took her first, faltering steps to carry out Gen. MacArthur's orders to afford her people the full breath of freedom.

The government also sought to import rice to alleviate a food crisis made even more critical by this week's typhoon which swept over central and southern Honshu.

Simultaneously, fresh disclosures of American investigators made it clear that, however trying the situation under an occupation, it would have been worse had Japan continued the war.

Fifth Army Air Force experts established that Japan's radar defense was so ineffective it could not be determined whether planes approaching the homeland were friend or foe, how many there were or how high.

Japan, which also has a critical shortage of fuel, asked permission to import 120,000 tons of oil from the United States. The government told MacArthur it was prepared to pay for it with 46,000 bales of raw silk.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12 (INS)—NBC Correspondent Guthrie Janssen in a broadcast from Tokyo today quoted Prince Fumimaro Konoye as saying the first change planned in the Japanese constitution would reduce the emperor to the position of a constitutional monarch like that of the British king.

Greater Hub War Fund Lags

More than $500,000 a day must be contributed to the Greater Boston United War Fund in order to attain the $7,750,000 goal by Oct. 17, the closing day of the campaign, Fund headquarters announced today.

"Only if every citizen gives not just generously, but sacrificially, can we possibly go over the top," Chairman Michael T. Kelleher emphasized.

Responding to the urgent need, department store employes will be on the Red Feather job when the stores open today from 1 to 5:30 p. m. The employe solicitors aim to report 100 per cent of their quotas at the report luncheon Monday at the Copley Plaza.

Calling for a week-end clean-up by his unit, Earl D. Warner, president of C. F. Hovey Co, and chairman of the retail division, announced that already 50 per cent of the employed groups had reported.

Many Boston teachers were reported to be contributing generously, with six additional schools going better than 100 per cent.

The 23-year-old soldier was flown back from France by the Army to attend the funeral rites here yesterday. More than 1000 sympathetic friends and neighbors attended the rites and the mass burial in Odd Fellows Cemetery.

George Fights Total Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Chairman George of the Senate Finance Committee called today for reducing rather than wiping out income taxes for 12,000,000 low-income Americans.

He thus wants a change made in the $5,350,000,000 tax-cutting bill, which rolled through the House yesterday by a vote of 343 to 10.

The Georgia Democrat said his committee will open three days of hearings Monday on the measure.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—Is the mother of a soldier entitled to receive an allotment if she is working and her husband is working? C. O., New Bedford.

A—The mother may receive a Class E allotment from the soldier, that is, an amount of his pay to which no allowance is added by the Government. Family allowance is paid to a parent when the fact of dependency exists, and this fact must be established before payment is approved and paid.

Q—A soldier in the service for almost three years and 35 years of age in November, 1945, when he applied for discharge—will the Army keep him for 90 days? E. M., Fall River.

A—The present policy is to discharge men in that category as promptly as possible. There may be some delay if the man is overseas or in an essential position, but there is no regulation which requires that a man obtaining discharge on this basis wait 90 days if it is possible to discharge him sooner than that.

Q—My husband has been in the Merchant Marine for three years. He is 21 and we have one child. If he leaves the Merchant Marine, will he be drafted into the Army? O. B., Milton.

A—Drafting of a man into the Army comes under the jurisdiction of his local draft board. That is the only agency which can give you information as to whether or not your husband would be subject to induction.

Q—I entered the service on Nov. 7, 1942, and was discharged in June, 1943, under the 38 years of age ruling. Am I entitled to mustering-out pay? G. B. C., Lawrence.

A—If you were discharged at your own request, to accept a position in essential industry, you are not entitled to receive mustering-out pay.

Q—My son has been in the Army three years with one year overseas, and he has one child. He also has 6 battle stars and good conduct medal. How many points has he got? R. H., Saxonville.

A—Your son has 36 points for total service, 12 for overseas duty, 5 for each battle star, 12 for the child, no points for the Good Conduct Medal. This gives him a total of 90 points.

Q—My husband is just being drafted into the Army. We have not lived together for two years; am I eligible for the Government allowance? K. N., Manchester.

A—You are entitled to receive Family Allowance if you are not legally separated or divorced from the soldier. If there is a legal separation, it would be necessary to have a court order for support in order to receive the Family Allowance. The necessary forms will be furnished upon request to Personal Affairs Branch, First Service Command, Boston 15, Mass.

Q—My boy friend is going overseas and says he'll make an allotment to me to save for him. Can he do this? J. B., Roslindale.

A—No. The soldier may authorize a Class E allotment only for a relative, a dependent, to be deposited in a bank in his own name or that of a relative or dependent, or for payment of commercial insurance premiums.

Time Is Short For Buddy Gift

Only two days—today and tomorrow—are left to enroll in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas Campaign sponsored by the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser. But that is still ample time for you to enroll in this drive to assure Christmas joy for a lonely soldier, sailor or marine at some distant outpost, who might otherwise be forgotten.

There is ample time to fill out the coupon accompanying this article and mail it to the campaign editor, receiving in return the label guaranteeing that your gift will go directly for distribution to some remote serviceman.

Midnight next Monday is the deadline for overseas mailing.

THE PRIME OF LIFE CAN BE PROLONGED

Dr. Henry G. Sherman Says:

"A generous supply of Calcium results in better development of the young, a higher form of adult health, and a longer lease of what we may call the prime of life—the period between maturity and old age."

FOOD RATIONING MAY NOT SUPPLY SUFFICIENT CALCIUM, SAYS CLAUDE WICKARD, former U. S. secretary of Agriculture.

Calcium is more often deficient in the diet than any other minerals. Calcium deficiency is a form of malnutrition that may be the cause of acidity, nervousness, fatigue, weakened heart muscles and other effects which hasten the onset of "OLD AGE" and shorten the "PRIME OF LIFE."

AM I NERVOUS?

Sleeplessness with ragged, jagged nerves may be due to a calcium deficiency which upsets the parathyroid glands causing intense sensitivity of the whole nervous system.

DO I TIRE EASILY?

A calcium starved body tires easily. A calcium deficiency may cause an upset nerve system, lose strength, energy and vitality. No person can be normal without a sufficient supply of calcium.

AM I OLD AT 40?

Old at 40 evidences of early aging, perhaps at 50 or 60, may be due to calcium deficiency. Calcium is needed, in adequate amount, in the repair and growth of body organs, tissues, cells. If your health is impaired, if you are run down, tired, old at 40 and nervous because you do not get enough Calcium or Phosphorus or Vitamin D or Vitamin B1 add KAL to your diet. See how much better you feel after KAL helps to build up, then maintain a normal Calcium-Phosphorus balance and help overcome the ill effects of a deficiency of the vital elements KAL so richly supplies

Archbishop 'Back in School'

Departing briefly from church austerity, Abp. Richard J. Cushing today took a student's chair at Christopher Columbus High School and after a friendly chat vowed jokingly that he thought he'd like "to go back to school again."

Earlier, the archbishop celebrated a solemn high mass at nearby St. Leonard's Church and in the sermon that followed thanked all who had aided in opening the new school—situated in Tileston st., North End.

"The surroundings of our new school might not be the most beautiful in the city but surroundings have little to do with education," the prelate told a church audience that numbered more than 500. "The faculty and the curricula are what count and I know that we have the best."

Attending the mass were Asst. Supt. of Schools Frederick Gillis, School Committee Chairman Michael J. Ward, Judge W. Tomasello and former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

There is but a freshman class at present, including 148 boys and 75 girls. Each year an additional class will be added until a four-year general high school is completed.

THE PATTON INCIDENT

"GEN. PATTON, YOU HAVE WRITTEN ONE OF THE MOST GLORIOUS PAGES IN THE HISTORY OF OUR COUNTRY." Lt.-Gen. Lucian Truscott.

THE WORDS quoted above were spoken by Gen. George S. Patton's successor when America's foremost field officer in the European theater relinquished, under orders, his command over the redoubtable Third Army.

As press and radio reports have shown, there was rejoicing in Moscow and in the Russian-controlled section of Berlin—and considerable jubilation among Reds and radicals in the United States over Gen. Patton's "disgrace."

For the Reds and radicals believed they themselves had won a victory.

They had obtained the hero's removal as military administrator of Bavaria—not, as their propaganda pretended, because Gen. Patton had failed or refused to put Nazis OUT of office but because he was unwilling to put Communists IN.

As well as he could under difficult conditions, Gen. Patton had made his own attitude—and, of course, his own rectitude—clear.

On Sept. 25, more than a week before he was transferred, he issued a statement referring to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's order of "a firm policy of uprooting the whole Nazi organization."

Gen. Patton said:

"It is my CONSIDERED OPINION that I am carrying out his directives with THE SAME VIGOR AND LOYALTY as I carried out those which resulted in victories at Casablanca, El Guettar, Sicily and here.

"I am convinced that as the result of my efforts I shall be JUST AS SUCCESSFUL here as I was in those other places."

GEN. PATTON'S task was not a simple one, however. Bavaria had been the stronghold of Nazism. Munich had been its cradle.

There were perhaps no German officials in Bavaria at the time of the conquest except Nazis.

Some of them, especially in the higher ranks, were virulent Nazis.

Some of them undoubtedly, as General Patton observed, had been made "Nazis" under duress and had paid "dues" as a victim pays blackmail.

General Patton's job—akin to General MacArthur's in Japan—was to destroy Nazism but also to avert chaos and catastrophe in the process.

So he began at the top, working downward.

"There are," he said on September 25, "no out-and-out Nazis in positions of importance whose removal has not ALREADY been carried out."

Moreover, General Patton said plainly that he intended to get rid of ALL Nazis.

But ON THAT DATE his work was NOT COMPLETED.

There had not been TIME ENOUGH for that.

And, obviously, SOME GERMANS had to be kept in service during the transitional period of putting OTHER GERMANS in their places.

"I believe," General Patton asserted, "that I am responsible for the deaths of as many Germans as almost anyone—BUT I KILLED THEM IN BATTLE.

"I should be un-American if I did not do my uttermost to prevent UNNECESSARY DEATHS AFTER THE WAR."

Part of the American responsibility, he declared, was "to assure ourselves that women, children and old men will not perish from hunger and cold this winter."

That danger exists in Germany.

IN THE VERY midst of the controversy over Gen. Patton, Field Marshal Montgomery issued a warning that THE BRITISH-HELD area of Germany is threatened with FAMINE.

Both commanders, it would seem apparent, were actuated by considerations of humanity in the performance of their military duties.

EVIDENTLY, THEREFORE, THE CHARGE OF FAVORITISM TO THE NAZIS DIRECTED AGAINST GEN. PATTON IS WHOLLY UNJUST AND THE TRUTH IS THAT HE IS MERELY NOT FAVORABLE TO THE COMMUNISTS.

Consequently we have had the usual Communist sneer—and the American general who made the greatest record in the European war is deprived of his command on the flimsy reasons made public.

IT IS A SINGULAR AND IN FACT A DISTURBING THING THAT AN AMERICAN AUTHORITY—POLITICAL OR MILITARY—WILL REMOVE AN AMERICAN GENERAL WITH A RESPLENDENT RECORD BECAUSE OF A COMMUNIST SMEAR.

Naturally the Communist press in Berlin, in Moscow, and in the United States was jubilant.

With Gen. Truscott in command, they may not get so far in Bavaria as they had hoped.

But the Communists seem to control at least a part of the American occupational forces and a considerable part of the American government.

And there is not much probability of great ability and great incentive in the military forces of the United States if the reward for heroic deeds is to be CALUMNY and DEMOTION.

"WEALTH COMES from industry and from the hard experience of human toil.

"To dissipate it in waste and extravagance is disloyalty to humanity. This is by no means a doctrine of persimony.

"Both men and nations should live in accordance with their means and devote their substance not only to productive industry, but to the creation of the various forms of beauty and the pursuit of culture which give adornments to the art of life.

* * *

"WITHOUT impairing the efficient operation of all the functions of the Government, I have steadily and without ceasing pressed on in that direction. This policy has encouraged enterprise, made possible the highest rate of wages which have ever existed, returned large profits, brought to the homes of the people the greatest economic benefits they ever enjoyed, and given to the country as a whole an unexampled era of prosperity.

* * *

"WHEN I became President it was perfectly apparent that the key by which the way could be opened to national progress was constructive economy. Only by the use of that policy could the high rates of taxation, which were retarding our development and prosperity, be diminished, and the enormous burden of our public debt be reduced."

THE AGA KHIAN is annually presented with his weight in gold by his Moslem followers. He has been recently informed that in 1946 these followers will present him with his weight in diamonds. What the exact weight of the Aga Khan is I cannot say, but I do know he weighs over 200 pounds. If, for example, he weighs 218 pounds, what do you figure the gift of his weight in diamonds will be worth in dollars?

PLUS FOURS: Next to the choker collar and the raccoon coat I think the article of attire that made men look most ridiculous was the plus fours golf costume. Not being a slave to fashion, I passed up that type of outfit and always wore long pants when golfing. When Byron Nelson broke in as a professional in the early 1930's he wore plus fours. However, he was very self-conscious when thus attired. He felt so silly that it affected his game. In 1935 he changed to wearing slacks when golfing and immediately began to win one tournament after another.

HUNTING: A Wisconsin subscriber asks me if I have been duck hunting lately. I haven't. PASSING BY: Nita Naldi. Erstwhile film actress. In the days of the silent cinema play she was styled a "sultry siren." This was not an exaggeration. The love scenes in which Nita appeared could undoubtedly be classed as "sultry" and she certainly was a Grade A siren. . . Joe Moran, Ballad singer from Brooklyn. Given his first opportunity as an entertainer by Joe Schenck of Van & Schenck. Incidentally, Joe Schenck died of a heart attack in Detroit about 15 years ago. Gus Van is still active. These two great vaudevillians first met when one was the motorman and the other a conductor on a Brooklyn trolley car.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Was a civilian ever awarded a Congressional Medal of Honor, and, if so, what for? A—George M. Cohan was awarded the Congressional Medal for having written the stirring and inspiring war song, "Over There." Q—I claim the theatrical price scale of 10, 20 and 30 cents originated in Brooklyn. How about it? A—Quite so. And the originator was Corse Payton at his stock company theater on Lee ave. Q—What songs did Adelina Patti popularize? A—Can't think of any particular song of which it might be said that Patti popularized it. She specialized in operatic selections. Is said to have been familiar with the scores of 36 operas. One of her favorite numbers was "The Last Rose of Summer." She also specialized in singing "Home, Sweet Home?" Q—Now those two corporals are arguing about what major league park has the shortest home run into the stands distance. A—That would be the Polo Grounds. Two hundred and fifty-nine feet from the home plate to the right-field stands.

DOG LOVERS: Seventy-nine per cent of farm families have dogs as do 49 per cent of those living in small towns. In large cities, only 29 per cent of families have canine pets. So states a statistician. However, this is no indication of the comparative love of dogs of the classes mentioned. Most farm dogs are kept for watch-dogs. That is also true of small-town dogs. City residents keep dogs solely because they like them. The percentage of city dog owners would be much higher if the pups were not barred by so many landlords.

That is, if he gave away matches with cigarets in 1942 . . . Hereafter most tailors will fit men customers in both standing and sitting position. Though the majority of men sit down, 85 per cent of the time, the tailors have for years fitted them only in standing position.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, by King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—I am the man who writes those little, lightsome editorials about the gradual disappearance of the covered bridge and the little red schoolhouse, crows, bluejays and woodchucks, hog-killing time and the sugar bush and, in season, about pussy-willows, gentian, goldenrod and snow.

Westbrook Pegler

My copy is shorter than the whither-are-we-drifting essays which have to be profound and elaborately other-handed or inconclusive in accordance with the tradition of liberalism.

My function is to stir in you a little feeling of dear nostalgia most days, if you read down to me, or, as often as I can, to turn up the corners of your soul in a quiet, homely smile.

After they scare you or make you indignant, I am supposed to quiet you down.

* * *

FRANKLY, however, I get pretty sick and tired of it all, because if they would only give me a chance I could write about Molotov, Yalta, full employment, reconversion and inflation with the best of them.

I read all the other editorials all the time and the butchers' paper weeklies that cost 15 cents and most of the books arguing this way and that way, which is exactly the way the heavy-duty editorial writers get their information and opinions.

Many is the time I have drawn some of them into arguments in the saloon near the office after work, just to show that I am smart enough to stand them down.

* * *

ON THE OTHER HAND, I don't know any more about covered bridges, weeds, maple syrup and snow than anybody else.

To hear me tell it, you might think I spent all my childhood hours whooping in a covered bridge to raise the echoes and watching the ragweed get pretty and making angels in the snow.

Fact is that I never saw a covered bridge until I was 25 years old and touring New England.

You could rule maple syrup out of my life right now without a peep out of me because I got an overdose when I was a young reporter eating off the arm and it was practically nothing but waffles, waffles, waffles and buckwheat cakes, with maple syrup, for years.

* * *

I HAPPENED to get started in this specialty way back there when the publisher had the idea of offering $5 a crack for little whiplash or shirt-tail editorials called "brighteners" to close up the editorial comment each day.

That was about the summer that I first saw a covered bridge, so I did him one on that and rang the bell, and thereafter for several months I made $5 or $10 extra almost every week, rekindling memories for the world-weary.

Then they put me on the editorial payroll as a regular hand, with the understanding, on my part, anyway, that if I had the stuff they would let me work my way forward through the country elections, then the mavoralties, then up into such issues as world peace and what to do about the atomic bomb.

I sit in on the editorial conference every day where we hash things over and the editorial director hands out the assignments. Three chief editorial writers have come and gone, one into the advertising business, one into the Treasury Department as some kind of counsellor on public relations and another into the O. W. I., and, though there have been some promotions—NOT ME.

* * *

IN 1930 they let me do one on the World Series in relation to international rivalry which was reprinted in a textbook on journalism and brought me $20.80, including two royalty checks for $3.60 and $2.20, respectively, spread over 12 years, and when Louis knocked out Schmeling that time I let myself go with something really big about the fallacy of the master race, and they shoved it up forward just behind the leading editorial,

BUT ALWAYS THEY HAVE DROPPED ME BACK TO MY OLD SPOT, WHERE THE ANIMAL ACT WOULD BE IF THIS WERE AN OLD-TIME VAUDEVILLE BILL.

* * *

WHAT DO I care about snow, anyway? I hate snow by the flake or drift.

Can you imagine me down on my back in the middle of the sidewalk down in Chelsea Village where I live, flapping my arms to make a snow angel, and at my age, too?

The editorial director would fire me for bringing discredit on the paper and yet, every winter, he has got to have one about what fun it is to be down in the snow and make angels.

Hollywood Today

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12—The strike has put all notions of casting out of Jack Warner's head for the moment, but I hear that in between conferences with his lawyers and trying to see that his workers are not injured in the fights that have prevailed all week, he has talked with Gary Cooper about playing Adm. Mitscher.

I happen to know such a deal is on the fire and it would be excellent casting.

Gary Cooper

This is Jerry Wald's production of "Task Force" which is the story of the history of naval aviation and is one of the few militaristic films being planned these days. The emphasis of "Task Force" won't, however, be on battles. It will be a pageant concerning the rise of carriers and will show not only how greatly they sped up victory over Japan, but how powerful they will be in maintaining the peace.

LAST TIME I heard about Robert Donat coming to the U. S. A., Edward Small said if he put his foot in Hollywood he'd slap an injunction on him, but that was a long time ago. The war has come and gone and many a contract with it. Donat is returning to the U. S. A., but as far as I can learn, only to put on his London play, "Cure for Love." He's just finished the Alexander Korda picture, and Metro, I believe, also claims him.

GEORGIA CARROLL, who is Mrs. Kay Kyser in private life and one of the most famous of the Conover girls, is being sought by Republic for the "Conover Girl" musical. I was interested to hear Alan Dwan, who will direct the picture, say that he will debunk the so-called glamorous life of the Conover lovelies. Most of them lead anything but plush existences.

ONE VERY FINE thing that the government is going to do with the millions of feet of documentary films shot during the war is to show them in the schools. These documentaries cover many other subjects besides living history. Some of them are straight training films, others are the atrocity pictures, still others are psychological studies, aptitude tests, and detailed picturizations of the qualities needed for success in various endeavors, all the way from chicken farming to ice cutting. These will be classified and shown to students of various ages. Will we be changing the three "R's" to Readin', Ritin', and Reviewin'?

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: I talked with Annabella at dinner the other night and she told me the truth about French fashions. "Don't you believe they are the superior of American styles or even the equal of them," she said. "Right now the French have lost their finesse. Because the Germans were all fat, the French dressmakers made dresses that would make them look fatter. Because the enemy had no color sense the Rue de la Paix whipped up perfectly terrible color combinations. The result is they've temporarily lost their own sense of taste." Annabella has been back from Paris only a few weeks. She's getting their home ready for the hoped-for return of Lt. Tyrone Power from the Marines.

MARTHA TILTON wired me from New York in great despair. She says she has never in all her life criticized Hollywood or its people. "I have been in tears all day," said Martha, "over the story my press agent dreamed up. Can't you help me?" Well, Martha, I didn't fall for your press agent's yarn, but I do know if it was anything against Hollywood you weren't the girl who said it. I know how you went with me and sang again and again when we went together to christen that hospital plane. I know how you went overseas with Jack Benny and how you entertained the boys, so if any press agent said you panned Hollywood I suspect he was wrong.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Friends in Hollywood are sorry to hear that Pauline and Duncan McMartin are separating. He is the very rich Canadian and she is very well known in Hollywood social circles. She wears the most decollete gowns in Hollywood; Commander Kimberly is very disturbed over an announcement on the air that he gave Carole Landis a car. He says he's happily married and while he knows Carole he has never given her any expensive gifts. In fact, he's been on the telephone to his wife, who, naturally, was very upset over this complete falsehood. Watterson Rothacker, who is as handsome as he was when I knew him, shall we say 15 years ago dining tete-a-tete with Millicent Jaeckel. They certainly make a handsome couple. June Haine says that her bridegroom, Jackie Cooper, should be home on leave over the week end, and is she happy.

He's gifting her with a wedding ring that is three bands of diamonds fastened by a large marquise diamond. Girls, he's starting something, to the jewelers' delight. What about the rest of us that wear plain bands? Herbert Marshall looked mighty blue dining all by his lonesome at the Beverly Hills Club; Ann Sheridan looking very happy over that new contract at the Donray opening with Steve Hannagan. WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Mr. Stanley Reed, one of our most brilliant young scientists, has invented a device which will measure within one ten-millionth of an inch, which is pretty narrow, even in a town full of bureaucrats.

The gadget is so delicate it will record the amount that a 12-inch solid steel girder is bent by a fly alighting on it. Even a fly will bend a girder infinitesimally, proving you shouldn't befriend a housefly.

Mr. Reed has a justifiable pride in his invention, which operates on radar principles. In scientific circles he is known as one of our greatest precisionists.

But, alas, he is also a married man. Recently, his wife tried to hire a carpenter to put in some pantry shelves. The carpenter wanted too much money—and Mr. Reed was dragooned into substituting.

You have undoubtedly guessed the outcome. The precisionist, who can measure down to one ten-millionth of an inch, cut the shelves a foot and a half short.

MORE EDUCATIONAL items from that informative volume "Our American Government"—any comments in parentheses being mine:

Question: What President has served the shortest length of time?

ANSWER: William Henry Harrison, who died in office, served only from March 4 to April 4, 1841.

Q—What is the oldest federal building in Washington?

A—The White House, which was begun in 1792 and first occupied in 1800 while still unfinished.

Q—What allowances (over and above his salary of $75,000 a year) does a President receive?

A—The President lives officially in the White House, although curiously enough the law on the statute books merely grants him the use of furniture and other effects belonging to the United States and kept in the executive mansion. He also has the use of $25,000 annually for traveling and entertainment expenses.

(It's the other way around at our place. I can use the house but not the furniture—and not a dime for entertainment.)

Q—What official privileges, if any, are extended to an ex-President?

A—An ex-President is by law entitled to receive one copy of the Daily Congressional Record, and to the use of the library of Congress.

(Seems like awful paupering.)

Q—Does the President ever wear a uniform?

A—Although the President is commander-in-chief of both the Army and Navy, he is a civilian. American tradition does not permit him to wear a uniform representing any branch of the military or naval service.

Q—Does the United States furnish an official residence for the Vice-President?

A—No. Although the matter has been seriously considered at various times.

(It doesn't matter now anyway. We have no Vice-President.)

Q—In what respect does the Postmaster General stand on a different footing from other cabinet members?

A—The Postmaster General is appointed to hold office during the term of the President and one month thereafter; all the other cabinet members are appointed with indefinite tenure. (It didn't look so indefinite after Truman came in.)

Boston After Dark

SHARP POLICE work by three Newton officers, who had pledged themselves to solve two major burglaries of Newton homes, brought about the recovery of much of the loot obtained when thieves ransacked the residence of Eddie Davis, owner of the Fox and Hounds Club of Boston . . . The Davis residence was burglarized two weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

WORKING AS A TRIO, Lt Daniel Crowely, Sergt. Richard Bannon and Inspector Joseph Lyons of the Newton gendarmerie, have been plugging along on the Davis housebreak since the crime was committed . . . A cameo piece was recovered last week in a Boston pawnshop . . . And a few other pieces of loot, none very valuable, were recovered . . . The "break" in the case came, however, when the Newton officers became suspicious of a shabbily-dressed woman who was carrying an alligator-skin bag of obvious quality.

★ ★ ★

THE INCONGRUITY of the woman's appearance and the valuable piece of luggage inspired the officers to question the woman . . . She told the story . . . With a man accomplice, she told the Newton cops that she had "cased" the Davis home as one of several prospects chosen haphazardly in the neighborhood . . . The man broke a glass pane with a pistol-butt wrapped in a handkerchief . . . The house was entered and rifled . . . Thousands of dollars' worth of clothing and jewelry and luggage was taken.

AFTER THE WOMAN'S confession, the Newton policemen were guided to Quincy and Belmont . . . Nearly all the stuff that had been stolen from the Davis residence was found in the caches pointed out by the woman . . . The Newton policemen were carrying an exact inventory of the property missed after the Davis burglary . . . On the list was "one alligator-skin bag, lady's" . . . This proved the undoing of the thieves.

AS TEN PER CENT of every column's readers are song writers (we have learned over the years by our mail), here is some chatter about popular songs . . . The source of our information (as you will have guessed if you read the goings-on in this space for Thursday) is Jack Robbins, the cherub of Seventh Avenoo and the graying little business Napoleon of Tin Pan Alley. (He was born in the West End and moved, because of crowding, to Worcester at an early age.)

WELL, MR. ROBBINS AND his chum and protege, Peter de Rose, the composer, made a tour of the town with your chronicler and heard Benny Fields at the Latin Quarter (good, good), Sophie Tucker at The Mayfair (good, good, good) and Nan Wynne at the Copley Plaza, also very good, and Hildegarde at the Statler, who is indescribable—don't you agree?

★ ★ ★

WE ENCOUNTERED a dozen aspiring song writers on that tour . . . Publishers of songs like the famous Mr. Robbins keep bumping into them at every stride . . . (Columnists meet enough of them to keep broke in mailing back unsolicited manuscripts) . . . One composer was a professional musician, the popular Johnny McAteer, just out of the Army and facing a keyboard again as the pianist for Sammy Eisen's orchestra at the Oval Room.

★ ★ ★

IT SEEMS that Johnny wrote a melody while in service and service bands were playing it all over the Pacific area and the West Coast of America . . . (I suppose that is redundancy, as the West Coast is the Pacific area surely enough) . . . Nonetheless, Johnny McAteer wrote a song . . . A Roxbury boy, Lee Morris, who writes lyrics and will make a click some day through sheer industry and enterprise, heard the melody and asked permission to put words to the tune.

★ ★ ★

THE RESULT goes by the name of "Something to Remember" . . . Mr. Robbins and Mr. De Rose were cornered in a crag of that now un-busy Sheraton Room, in the rear of the Oval Room, where the overflow dancers from the Oval Room's dance floor go on busy nights . . . The tune seemed to strike the fancy of Publisher Robbins, who, however, had a suggestion or two to make in which Composer (Deep Purple, Lilacs in the Rain, etc.) de Rose seemed to concur . . . You may be hearing from that Boston-born tune.

★ ★ ★

ANOTHER BOSTON creation, by one Charles Wolf, is another combination of words and music (although probably there will be new words) that you may be whistling eventually as a publication of a Robbins firm . . . This one goes by the name of "My Dream of Love" . . . Maestro Sammy Eisen "discovered" it . . . In fact, Sammy has been sandwiching a rendition of it between layers of accepted tunes like "If I Loved You" and the version of Chopin's Polonaise which is leading the hit parade currently.

Storm

vanished along with tents and huts, leaving the island for hours without contact with the outside world.

Aircraft parked on many airstrips rode out the typhoon better than in the terrific September storm but grounded ships dotted the coral shelf of the east coast beaches. On a tour of the island yesterday I saw cub observation planes parked in trees like birds.

Miraculously, few deaths were reported after the fierce onslaught of the storm Tuesday night when metal from the shattered Quonset huts and jagged pieces of lumber ripped through the air everywhere.

Many were injured, however, and the Navy Air Transport Service ordered all planes taking off for Guam to carry only persons requiring medical attention.

It was estimated a score of persons were injured in the Yonabaru airfield area where the Navy transports and Fleet Airwing One planes based. That section was turned into a shambles.

For 24 hours everyone was concerned only with finding food, some semblance of shelter and gathering together what remained of their belongings.

Their plight was made more bitter by a cold, penetrating rain, whipped by the high winds, which prevented anyone from venturing forth once shelter was found.

The storm demonstrated that the United States has not built for permanence on Okinawa as most of the Quonsets were not even anchored to concrete bases despite the knowledge that such typhoons sweep the island each year.

Kent Shuns Role Of War Martyr

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—With Tyler Kent en route to the United States after serving five years in a British jail on charges of violating the British official secrets act, here were the developments today in the mysterious case of the former code clerk in the American embassy in London.

Both the State Department and the Department of Justice expressed no interest in further prosecution of the young diplomat who copied secret messages exchanged between President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill in 1940 which allegedly were transmitted to another person.

Kent, in a letter received by his mother, Mrs. William P. Kent, declared he had no intention of posing as a martyr upon his return to his native land but hoped that the American sense of fair play would establish his innocence.

At the British embassy, it was explained that Kent's sailing would be delayed until next week due to a dock strike, and that there now are no restrictions on his making public statements as far as the British home office is concerned.

blunt the Jap force or lessen its effectiveness, but if the latter had to be the case, I would have to sacrifice the Kennon Road—Bonnett's escape route.

My plan was to hit the south-bound Jap spearhead with the best-seasoned men in my command—the 26th Cavalry—and at the same time contain the forces which were landing in the vicinity of Damortis (on the eastern beaches and half-way down Lingayen Gulf). These later forces, linked with even more southerly landings, were the ones threatening to cave in the 11th's right flank near San Fabian.

The 26th got up to Damortis and hit the Japs landing there, and others coming from the south, with all it had. With a little more punch and fortune, the 26th might have sprayed the Japs all over the coastal plain.

But the enemy called for planes, which strafed our men and horses without fear of aerial counter-attack. We lost more of our few first-class fighting men that day at Damortis, and a number of fine horses, including my Little Boy, who took a bullet through his head.

Another reason the 26th failed there was that the tank support I tried to give it fell far below expectations. The tanks, standard seven-ton light tanks of that day, were operating in my area but were under the independent command of Brig. Gen. James R. N. Weaver.

I asked that a company (16) of them be sent to Damortis to help the 26th in its difficult and varied mission. Instead, only a platoon of five was sent, and it was not nearly enough. The platoon fought as well as it could against the Japs, whose light mortars and pie-pan mines were death on such tanks, especially when there were not many to contend with. Suffice it to say that those tanks should have been wholly mine, or not at all.

But on its alternate mission the 26th more than made good. When it withdrew it succeeded in pulling the Japs to the eastward toward Rosario, fighting gallant delaying actions all the way.

As I foresaw, the 26th backed across the Kennon Road, and when the Japs followed they thus cut off Bonnett and his resting men. The 26th continued its battling withdrawal until it reached and crossed the Bued river, below and east of Rosario.

Bonnett and his men were isolated somewhere up the sacrificed Kennon Road. But the 11th's shaky flank, indeed our whole right side, would now be crumpled.

The 26th's withdrawal was made possible by a thousand acts of valor, but none exceeded the courage of that of Maj. T. J. H. Trapnell, a fine football and polo player and a fine officer who had served under me when I was commander of the Third Cavalry before the war.

"Trap" commanded the 26th's rear guard as it pulled the Japs eastward. Jap tanks were pressing him severely as he edged back. About halfway between Damortis and Rosario he came upon a wooden bridge over a deep, muddy stream, impracticable for tanks to ford. So he commandeered a truck and jammed it sideways across the important little bridge. The Jap tanks were within range of him now and giving him everything they had. But he calmly took out his pistol, shot the car carburetor off the truck's engine, set the thing on fire and got away—a feat for which he eventually was given the Distinguished Service Cross.

"Trap's" war was to end, and God knows what indignities begin, when Bataan fell. He survived not only his imprisonment but also escaped from the stinking prison ship which carried Ganahl and so many others to their deaths a few short months before the end of the long war.

From my new field headquarters at Alcala, on the Agno river just below the base of Lingayen Gulf, I ordered the battered and weary 26th Cavalry relieved by the 71st Division, and sent the cavalrymen back to the village of Binalonan to lick their wounds. They had suffered about 150 men killed and wounded in the fighting from Damortis to the Bued, and one troop of about 100 men had been detached and stationed at Bontoc in the mountains to keep the Japs from moving up into Baguio by the Naguilian road.

On the same afternoon, Dec. 23, I telephoned MacArthur's headquarters, told it we had a brief breathing spell, and suggested that my right flank and the whole line could be strengthened if I could withdraw behind the Agno river. MacArthur sent immediate approval.

Then I told headquarters that I believed I could launch an attack from the Agno river line if I could have the services of my old Philippine division. Headquarters directed me to submit my plans for the counter-attack.

"I'll get my plans there as soon as possible," I shouted into the phone. "But give me an answer now on whether I get the Philippine division."

There was a little delay. Then the voice came back. "It's highly improbable," the voice said.

The bubble of my counter-attack ambitions was bursting. Any novice could see that without the Philippine division there would be no attack. This division knew the essentials of combat. The Philippine divisions I was then preparing to string along the south bank of the Agno had neither the training, nor the equipment and discipline, for attack.

Nevertheless, on that night of Dec. 23 I was working on my counter-attacking plans—forlorn as they were now becoming—when a phone call from MacArthur's headquarters stopped everything.

It was Pete Irwin calling.

"WPO-3 is in effect," Pete said.

It was a bitter pill to swallow, for War Plan Orange No. 3 meant the last ditch: the long-ago-planned desperation withdrawal to Bataan. I guess I must have been silent too long for Irwin on the other end of the line.

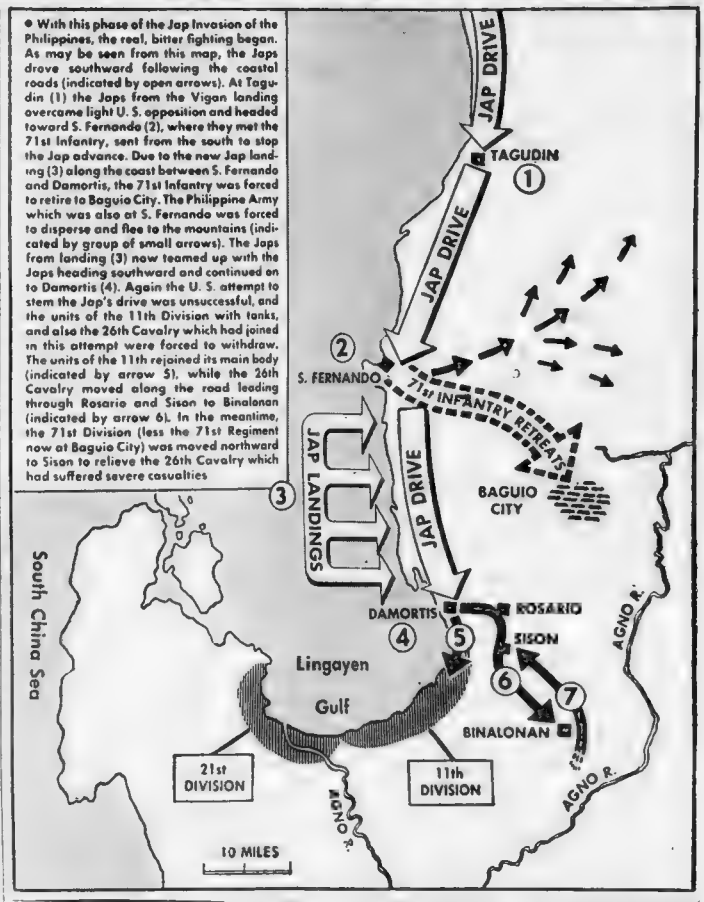
"You understand" he asked.

"Yes, I understand," I said quietly.

That was not all. MacArthur, I learned, was about to leave Manila and take his headquarters to Corregidor.

A soldier's world is where he is fighting. Mine was falling to pieces.

(TOMORROW: A warning for the future. The Japs hit hard and fast.)



● With this phase of the Jap invasion of the Philippines, the real, bitter fighting began. As may be seen from this map, the Japs drove southward following the coastal roads (indicated by open arrows). At Tagudin (1) the Japs from the Vigan landing overcame light U. S. opposition and headed toward S. Fernando (2), where they met the 71st Infantry, sent from the south to stop the Jap advance. Due to the new Jap landing (3) along the coast between S. Fernando and Damortis, the 71st Infantry was forced to retire to Baguio City. The Philippine Army which was also at S. Fernando was forced to disperse and flee to the mountains (indicated by group of small arrows). The Japs from landing (3) now teamed up with the Japs heading southward and continued on to Damortis (4). Again the U. S. attempt to stem the Jap's drive was unsuccessful, and the units of the 11th Division with tanks, and also the 26th Cavalry which had joined in this attempt were forced to withdraw. The units of the 11th rejoined its main body (indicated by arrow 5), while the 26th Cavalry moved along the road leading through Rosario and Sison to Binalonan (indicated by arrow 6). In the meantime, the 71st Division (less the 71st Regiment now at Baguio City) was moved northward to Sison to relieve the 26th Cavalry which had suffered severe casualties

'Duffy's Tavern,' Filled With Stars, on Met Menu

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Duffy's Tavern," Ed Gardner's airwaves' joint "where the ayleet meet to eat," has gone the eventual way of most hit shows, to Hollywood. It is presently to be seen on the Met screen in Paramount's louder, longer, but hardly funnier celluloid version.

Within its modest half-hour etherized confines, "Duffy's Tavern" is as dependably, frequently hilariously comic as any program on the air. In its 97-minute long film edition, it is the added starters, including virtually every top performer on the Paramount payroll, who garner the laughs.

The Hollywood gold isn't for Duffy's, which emerges from the glamor dunking a bit the worse for wear. An inept script has been whipped up involving the four principals, Archie, Eddie, Finnegan and Miss Duffy, and their efforts to put some ex-servicemen to work.

In midstream Ed Gardner's girl and the show change. Betty Hutton is the new "pedestrian" occupant, if she'll ever pause in her jitterbugging, and Paramount's most glittering "names" burlesque some of Hollywood's most endurable plot sequences.

Sonny Tufts, Paulette Goddard and Brian Donlevy in a lover-in-the-closet blackout is good for laughs and is not routine. The four Crosby kids, eluding Uncle Robert Benchley for mentioning Sinatra's name in the C. manse and listening eagerly to his story of Papa Bing's success, a la Horatio Alger, prove they're grace-notes of the old Crooner. Eddie Bracken, playing the double for a handsome cowboy hero, and getting custard and blueberry pied in the Mack Sennett tradition, provides a rib-tickling sequence.

Don Cossacks Give Program Here Oct. 28

The famed Don Cossacks, the Russian male chorus and dancers, will give one of their rare programs under Nicholas Kostrukoff's direction in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 28. Programmed for the event are liturgical selections, Russian folk melodies, regimental Cossacks and the newest Soviet songs.

MANDY KAY AT CASINO

Mandy Kay, a local favorite, is the leading comic in the Casino's new burlesque revue, in which Peaches, Jane Cooper, Sharon Kelly and Dorothy Ahern continue as the featured cuties.

GEORGE SANDERS is teamed romantically with Ella Raines in Universal's "Uncle Harry," which is due at Keith Memorial on Wednesday.

Marion Hutton Charms 'Em to Tony Pastor's Jive

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Tony Pastor's Orchestra and Marion Hutton gave the RKO-Boston patrons a happy hour at the opening show yesterday, judging from the ebullience of the young folks out front.

Miss Hutton, prettier than ever and looking more than ever like her sister Betty, has a fresh, engaging manner, and although her voice would never get her into grand opera, she uses it well. She undoubtedly isn't worried about opera, either.

Marion was at her best in "Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe" and "Pigs Foot Pete." She has a novel trick with a mirror in which she sends the spotlight back into the audience and sings to the boys.

The cash customers kept getting into the act in this show. Dick Buckley, a comedian whose act starts out rather slowly, has a very funny stunt in which he gets four members of the audience up on the stage and uses them as Charlie McCarthys, and another one, a crazy hat-swapping trick which is somehow hilarious.

Tony Pastor's boys played some excellent numbers, sweet as well as hot. Sondra Barrett, a nimble-footed lass, enlivened the program with dancing, and Dick Dyer sang a medley competently.

Stubby Pastor, the maestro's younger brother, did a slick job on his trumpet with "I Surrender, Dear," and was given a rousing vote of appreciation by the K-Boston boys and girls.

Fashion

Twin Aids for Lovelier Complexion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

SO YOU THOUGHT complexion perfection was strictly a feminine problem! Read this letter which came to us recently from a sailor aboard the U.S.S. Wyoming and you'll think differently! And if those bell-bottom-trousered boys are seriously concerned with the condition of their skin, what . . . I ask you . . . should we girls be doing until they get home . . . twiddle our fingers? Yes, but in effective manipulation for an improved facial pelt.

"This might appear as an unusual request," writes the U. S. S. Wyoming correspondent, "but as I work in the first aid department on our ship, I receive requests from men in their teen age who have oily skin or acne, for help. Upon reading your article, I thought you would be able to give me some information. I wonder if you would be so kind as to send me a memo on oily skin."

The column does get around . . . and we hope the information we immediately dispatched to Uncle Sam's navy men will bring them back . . . soft and clean-skinned and mighty handsome . . . to greet and meet their dream girls.

You know, of course, that a girl can't expect to have a good complexion if her digestion and elimination are faulty. Drinking from 6 to 8 glasses of water every day is a good starter . . . or fruit juices may be substituted at any time. Then, too, she must watch her diet . . . and we don't have the slimming kind in mind. We have a special 12-day skin-clearing diet that is among the best . . . yours for the asking.

FOR HOME USE

But diet alone is not the most important part of a treatment which we have devised for home use that can remedy an erupted and blemished complexion. An effective treatment can be applied to all cases of acne with good results . . . and in the majority of cases it has been an absolute cure.

Many of the large cosmetic companies have good acne treatments . . . but this one entails simple home remedies used judiciously and regularly . . . and it is a treatment passed on to us by a dermatologist.

We'll be happy to send you the 12-day complexion clearing diet . . . or the home treatment for oily or acne-skin condition . . . or both (please specify) . . . if you write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LUCKY is the girl who owns such a fabulous and opulent natural wild mink stole . . . and if you're one of them . . . wear it this new and nifty way as shown by CBS singer Diana Courtney. Ends of the luxuriously full cape were fashioned by Harry Trencher to fall from a nipped-in waist . . . or be snapped back to form pocket nooks that also serve as a muff to keep those dainty fingers warm. This is after-dark elegance in the elite manner.—R. M.

THE HEAD is out in the open this season . . . what with off-the-brow toppers, neckline jewelry and dress and coat collars high up to the chin tossing a merciless spotlight on our personality mouthpiece . . . the face. It takes a beauteous lovely like this model to show off John Rubel's palladium snake chain with clips of cabochon emeralds and diamonds. But we have a 12-day skin-clearing diet and home treatment for oily or blemished skin that's mighty fine . . . and yours for the asking or writing.

Long Courtship

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm 21 years old and the boy to whom I engaged is 20, and is still in the Army. We met at one of the USO dances and we became engaged before he left for overseas. I believe in long engagements, as that gives a person a better chance of finding out what the other one is like. Some of my friends say it's better to have a long courtship and short engagement. They say that during an engagement, when you're wearing a boy's ring, no one else has a right to date you, while during a long courtship you really can date other boys, and your fiance will have to get jealous or leave. I don't expect to marry until he is home for good and has a good job. S. R.

I've never heard of any hard and fast rule laid down about the length of engagements. An equal number of marriages, happy as the average, seem to result from both "schools of thought." When either courtships or engagements run into years, as a rule it's an unfortunate experience for the women. The boy friend, grown middle-aged and sometimes even elderly, looks around for something younger and fresher than the woman whose time he has wasted.

A boy of 20 is rather young to assume the responsibilities of marriage. But there are exceptions.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

BE TACTFUL, PLEASE! Don't constantly question the serviceman as to why he hasn't been discharged, how many points he has, etc. And please don't say, "Well, Jack is home for good. I don't know why you can't hurry your discharge papers!"

Name for Check

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: When my bank had checks printed for me, they printed the same name I use in signing my checks . . . (let's say) G. Louise Robinson. (I am enclosing a sample check.) This seems proper to me. And yet I would very much have preferred to have the name printed as Mrs. John Robinson, for that would be easier when I write my checks to pay bills in that name. I understand that they could have been printed with my formal name ("Mrs. John Robinson"), and signed "G. Louise Robinson," but that this is not supposed to be correct. Will you please enlighten me about this? G. L. R.

Either form of name is correct for a married woman to have printed on her checks . . . either (1) exactly the form of name she signs (which should, of course, be her informal name, the form she registers with the bank when she opens her checking-account), or (2) her formal name, her husband's name prefixed by "Mrs."

Long Dinner Dress Tops

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ONE OF THE blessings of peace is the return of the long dinner dress to the front row of fashions for after dark. The new ones are made to give grace and beauty to women who have been wearing the short kind. Particularly nice are the long dresses for mature women, who look their very best in such things.

I have chosen a model of this kind to show you today. It is from Mme. Eta and is made of a deep, glowing red crepe — a red the designer calls "altar red." The surpliced waist and the long-gathered panel at the left side of the skirt are grace itself.

Black satin bands finish the short sleeves, and there are long black satin gloves. Black jet beads trim the pocket in the end of the skirt panel.

Helpful Relish

By MARTHA LEE

Household Editor

A FEW WEEKS AGO we published a recipe for a delicious garden special made with ripe tomatoes, celery, onions and sweet peppers, and we had many comments on it. At that time we suggested it as a relish to perk up winter meals. Its primary use, of course, is as a relish—but we find that it has many other uses as well.

For instance, a cup or two of this spicy garden special will do wonders in the way of adding zip to a simple egg and cheese dish, or a dish made up of a small amount of hamburg or leftover meat. In fact, we've found that we can use it with equal success in soup, salad, or main dish. Such a convenient thing to have on your pantry shelf! And "easy as pie" to make. Here is the recipe again:

GARDEN SPECIAL

4 qts. ripe tomatoes
1 qt. celery 1 qt. onions
1 qt. water
6 sweet peppers
3 tbsp. salt 2 tbsp. sugar

Dice peppers, onions, and celery (coarse stalks and leaves may be used), add water, and cook together for 20 minutes. Add tomatoes which have been peeled and cut up, seasonings, and after it all comes to a boil, put into hot jars, and process in hot water bath for 30 minutes for quart jars or 25 minutes for pints.

CREOLED EGGS

2 tbsp. fat
1 cup garden special
½ cup grated American cheese
2 tbsp. flour
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup milk
½ cup cracker crumbs, buttered

Make white sauce of fat, flour and milk. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add garden special to white sauce. Place alternate layers of sauce and eggs in casserole. Top with crumbs and cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Note: 1 clove, mashed garlic and ¼ tsp. chili powder may be added.

ONE-DISH MEAL

1 pint garden special
2 cups cooked spaghetti, rice or cold diced potatoes
½ lb. hamburg or leftover meat

Put layers in a baking dish. Cook in oven until heated through. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

HEARTY SOUP

1 pint garden special
1 pint shell beans

Cook together until they can be strained. Strain, reheat and serve. Note: Leftover frankfurts may be sliced thinly and used as a garnish.

MOLDED SALAD

Add 2 tsp. sugar to 1 qt. garden special. Put 1 or 2 envelopes of plain gelatin in a bowl, depending on amount of liquid in garden special. Add 2 tsp. of vinegar, and 2 tbsp. cold water to gelatin and stir. Heat 1 cup garden special liquid and stir into gelatin until it dissolves. Add unheated portion of garden special. Chill in individual molds.

VEGETABLE SHORTCAKE

1 cup flour
Salt
2 tsp. baking powder
2 tbsp. shortening
1-3 cup milk

Sift flour, salt, and baking powder together. Cut in shortening. Add milk. Roll out and divide into eight parts. Bake 15 to 20 minutes at 375 deg. F. Thicken 1 pint of garden special with 2 tsp. cornstarch. Heat. Pour hot garden special in between layers and on top of biscuits.

BAKED FISH

Cover fish with garden special. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake. Or thicken 1 pint garden special with 2 tbsp. flour and 2 tbsp. bacon fat. Season. Pour over fish on the platter before serving.

U.S. Army's 'Devil Island' At Marseilles Prison Camp

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE BOSTON GLOBE CARRIED a disturbing story under the by-line of Fred MacKenzie, whom I knew in France and Germany as a conscientious, factual reporter. Fred tells of visiting an Army disciplinary center at Marseilles where 3700 U. S. soldiers were doing heavy penance ranging from one year to death by gunfire.

Austen Lake

They are an average crowd of malefactors, says Fred, with trivial offenders mixed with vicious criminals, chronic thieves, perverts and killers. And all but 98, who are dressed in black uniforms as designation of impending execution, wear their division shoulder patch upside down. They drill 14 hours a day, are obliged to "freeze like bird dogs" when a jeep, regardless of the rank of its occupants, passes the stockade. They are put through long "halt" and "march" formations in sudden stops and starts and as MacKenzie remarked, are "made into something other than our American tradition."

Shades of French Guiana and Devil's Island! Visions of "Hard-boiled Smith" from that other war! Memories of 1918's sadistic Bonnet Rouge prison where our soldiers were beaten, starved, robbed and humiliated.

Cases of Pvts. Phelan and Black

MacKENZIE CITES the example of a long-term inmate who was there for refusing to obey an officer's order to drive a German motorcar, on the premise, true or false, that Army regulations forbade using Kraut vehicles. It's another recitation of kangaroo justice jumbled in with fair, logical verdicts in which both amateur and habitual offenders are mixed mutually together like a festering chop suey.

I have read some 70 transcripts of Army courts martial since last June—court records and trial testimony of soldiers under sentences which vary from a year "for unauthorized use of an Army vehicle" to 40 years for being "AWOL from the combat zone." There are as many shadings of offense and punishment as there are colors in the spectrum.

MOST of the verdicts are conscientious efforts of the court to balance crime and punishment. Although the stiff sentences meted out are far from the standard of civil court justice, there can be no doubt about the guilt of the offender as charged. But a large portion of others are legal travesties wherein dim-witted, fumbling and inept officers with no training in jurisprudence bungled the case badly and, through their stupidities and inexperience, got their clients a long stretch.

I do not pretend to pose as a self-appointed mouthpiece for mischief-makers. To do so would be unfair to the vast mass of law-abiding, sincere soldiery who kept their records spotless under the most tortured conditions known to man. Yet there are many soldiers serving harsh sentences, altogether out of line with their misdemeanors, and I feel that America has a social responsibility toward such minor "black sheep."

Here, for instance, is the case of Pvt. William R. Phelan of Boston, charged with having "received a lawful command from 2 Lt. Harry H. Hawkins, his superior officer, to go to work at Fort Sill, Okla., and who did, about February 20, 1944, wilfully disobey same." That's bad; It's a serious tap in the Army. But how serious?

The court sentence reads: "The accused, Pvt. William R. Phelan, will be discharged dishonorably, forfeit all pay, due or to become due, and be confined at hard labor for TWENTY YEARS." Sounds shocking eh? A striker, huh? Twenty years for refusal to obey an order! That's the Army, not the civilian code!

ALL RIGHT. HERE'S THE CASE of Pvt. Donald Black of Somerville. The court's charge: "That Pvt. Black, having received a lawful command from 2 Lt Thomas R. Newman, his superior officer to go and get his rifle, did (Ed.— in England), on April 17 1944, wilfully disobey same." The verdict: "That Pvt. Black be dishonorably discharged, forfeit all pay, due or to become due, and be confined at hard labor for FIVE YEARS."

So we have two cases, virtually identical, both in the rear areas! Yet one gets 20 years and the other five! By what standard or thumb rule of justice did the two courts mete out their sentences? Or do they depend on the whim of the presiding officers?

LET'S GO a bit deeper into Black's case! The typed testimony shows that he had ridden all day and most of the night in a pelting rain; that he had helped set a cannon in an emplacement after bailing out the water-filled pit. He had then gone to the mess shack for his breakfast when his sergeant ordered him back to the gun position. He had tried to finish his breakfast, thereby disobeying an order.

His lieutenant, deeming that Pvt. Black was in need of a disciplinary lesson, ordered him to get his rifle and, despite his fagged-out, nervous exhaustion, to do two hours' punishment march. Pvt. Black refused! Penalty five years! It's all in the court transcript. I have a number of similar examples.

THE WAR is over! Extreme disciplinary action of the above types is no longer necessary, if it ever was. Young officers without emotional stability and previous experience in man-handling sometimes abused their magnified notion of authority or showed immature judgment. Yet the army courts accept their mandates under the single standard authorized when the President commissioned them "officers and gentlemen." I have found among the great volume of competent, able and earnest officers, some very flat tires, not to mention some out-and-out heels who were neither emotionally nor mentally equipped to manage a flea circus, let alone a platoon or company of soldiers.

Fred MacKenzie's story from Marseilles accents the need for swift and penetrating review of all Army and Navy court sentences with a view to mitigation or voiding of verdicts where harsh injustice is indicated. Let's get busy now.

N. Y. U. Gridmen Test Boston College at Fens

By MURRAY KRAMER

FENWAY PARK, Oct. 12—Before a sparse gathering of some 1500, Boston College played grid host to New York University here this afternoon. This was the second meeting between the two. Last fall, under lights, the Eagles hammered the Violet 42 to 13.

FIRST PERIOD

After marching down the field to the NYU 18 before fumbling, Boston College came right back the second time it took over to score. It was a 71-yard jaunt with the last 43 yards taken care of by a McMorrow to Carney pass. Longval converted.

Score: B. C. 7, N. Y. U. 0.

The Eagles next took over on their own 36 and again the Maroon and Gold rolled right along on the ground to the 28. Here McMorrow flipped an aerial to Helstowski on the 10. Carney picked up five. Twomey added another and then Carney spun over. Longval converted.

Score: B. C. 14, N.Y.U. 0.

N.Y.U. took the kickoff back to its own 40 and ran two plays to its 46 as the period ended.

Score: B. C. 14, N.Y.U. 0.

Marines Have Grid Ambitions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) This is to let the Army and Navy know they may soon have to share their top-ranking service football honors with a third team, the Merchant Marines.

Representatives of the Marines were in town yesterday to pay their respect to Vice Adm. Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, and they left no doubt about their football ambitions.

Land, long an ardent gridiron enthusiast, said:

"Certainly, I think it's in the making. This wouldn't be the year to toss the Marine lambs to the powerful Army and Navy tiams, but we'll see if there is a place on their schedules next season."

Series Fans Eat Tons of Hot Dogs

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP) Fans at the four World Series games at Wrigley Field were hungry and thirsty, a box score on their appetite kept by Concession Chief Ray Kneip disclosed today.

They ate thousands of pounds of hot dogs, peanuts and crackerjack but there was a slump in the sale of popcorn, and Kneip says he knows why. Fans were wearing gloves and didn't want to get 'em greased up with melted butter.

O'Neill Appointed Honorary Police Chief

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP) Because he led the Detroit Tigers to triumph in the World Series, Manager Steve O'Neill has been appointed honorary police chief of Scranton, Mayor Howard J. Snowden announces. O'Neill is a native of near-by Minooka, Pa.

15,000 at Rockingham For A. M. Race Program

By JACK CONWAY

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 12—The amazing popularity of horse racing as a sport and spectacle was demonstrated once again at Rockingham Park this morning, when a crowd of more than 15,000 stormed the little roadside plant just after breakfast and tossed $534,069 through the mutuel machines for the benefit of the National War Fund.

It was the fourth annual doubleheader for war relief sponsored by Lou Smith and his associates at the old Rock, and though all previous records were destined to be broken before the day was done, it became apparent early in the day that Smith's goal of a two-million dollar day was not to be realized, simply because of the weather conditions.

The sun made a couple of losing efforts to break through during the six-race morning card, but it finally burst through in all its glory shortly after noon, whereupon thousands started arriving by bus and train and private car to jam-pack every inch of space within the track and to assure the National War Fund of a highly successful day.

Feature race of the morning, the Littleton purse at a mile and a sixteen, was won by R. H. Schwartz' Singular with Rocco Sisto providing a well-judged ride. He came from off the pace to beat Santa Candida by three lengths and to return $11.20 to the damp but happy patrons.

Previously, three favorites had won the first three races, to give the chalk eaters an especially nice holiday.

POPEYE WOODS of New York and Coley Welch, New England middleweight champion, will be battling for the right to meet Jake LaMotta when they clash in a 10-round bout at the Garden tonight under the direction of the Goodwin A. C. The LaMotta match is a fistic plum which will net $5000 to the victor of the Woods-Welch skirmish.

Popeye, a mighty right-hand socker, has been installed a 10 to 8 favorite for his meeting with Welch. It is the opinion of Woods' followers, who recently witnessed him stop Reedy Evans, that he packs too much power in his right duke for Welch.

Woods is a unique type of boxer. He has a style which is all his own. He mixes considerable clowning with his fighting and he is liable to throw a punch from almost any angle. This deceptive hitting ability makes Popeye particularly effective in nailing his target.

Popeye has been boxing for more than a dozen years, but he still possesses an abundance of speed and ring fire. Popeye likes to set his own pace, as most veteran boxers do. He flashes for 10 to 20 seconds at a time, and then coasts along easily until he cuts loose with his next burst of speed.

WELCH IS A hard, bruising scrapper with a better than average knowledge of boxing. He knows that Popeye will try to outgeneral him and set a pace to his own liking. This has made Coley determined to carry the battle to his opponent from the start of the contest.

Welch is younger and stronger than Popeye, and if he refuses to allow his ring rival to take command he can win. Welch has trained in Boston under the supervision of Harry Kelley. Coley is in excellent physical condition.

Welch has had an abundance of experience in hard, gruelling bouts, and he will not be awed by Popeye's punching power. He will also refuse to remain inactive if Popeye puts on one of his clowning acts.

With LaMotta signed to meet the winner, the bout takes on added importance. LaMotta is one of the best middleweights in the country. Ray (Sugar) Robinson was recently fortunate to win a close decision over LaMotta in Chicago. LaMotta has one win to his credit over Welch, but the latter feels he would do better in a return meeting.

Bulletin

Popeye Woods had a half-pound weight advantage over Coley Welch at the weighing-in ceremonies at the Boxing Commission today. Wood tipped the beam at 167 while his Portland opponent weighed 166½.

Brilliant Everett To Invade Salem

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Everett High School will rejoin the football ranks tomorrow afternoon when Coach Dennie Gildea's odds-on favorites for the state championship will invade Bertram Field, Salem, to tangle with the Witches in the outstanding game on the afternoon program.

The schedule placed Everett's alleged powerhouse under wraps after the fans had but a fleeting glimpse of the gigantic eleven against Somerville (19-0).

This single victory set the royal rooters on fire and they'll probably be raving when Everett makes it two in a row against Salem in this contest. But even Salem will not be a true test for the Gildea A. C. this fall. The Witches, whipped by Marblehead last week-end, will be out-weighed in every position so it should be just a matter of time before Everett wears out its smaller foe.

As examples, Salem's Steve Rizzotti, 180 pounds, will be squaring off in the line against Everett's Tony Mazzone, 6.4 inch 220-pounder; John Ahern, 184, will be stacked against Dick Giardana, 220-pound guard; end Frank Kelly, 165, will be checking Amando Mazzone, 190. And that's how the weights will run throughout with Everett holding close to the same average in experienced material.

Salem turned the trick last fall with an outweighed outfit (12-0) but there was nobody stopping that Miami-bound team.

Nearby on the North Shore there'll be a nifty little dog-fight as undefeated Amesbury, under Coach Tony Tassinari, steps up against Saugus, defending B champion. Amesbury showed plenty of power—especially in guard Bob Kozarcha—at Winthrop last week so that Coach Dave Lucey's crew will be in for plenty of trouble.

On the opposite extreme in Suburban ranks, Brockton will be shooting for No. 4 against battered Newton at Eldon Keith Field, Brockton. The well-balanced Shoe City eleven—with passing aces Mario DiMarzo and Dom Bertocci—will probably hang the Orange and Black on the highest tree in the city.

In Greater Boston ranks, the Waltham-Arlington clash should find Coach Henry Toozylowski getting his team into stride. Even in defeat (Lynn Classical) last week, Arlington looked great with George Faulkner a nifty, hard-working back. The Watch City team still is lacking in experienced material.

There'll be other games that can't be overlooked—such as the Beverly-Peabody tussle at Manning Bowl, Lynn, tomorrow night and the usual list of Sunday outlaws and Catholic Leaguers.
